

Paving Commandos Jupiter Contractor Expands Local Presence With New Location Serving Palm Beach County

September 16, 2026

JUPITER, FL - September 16, 2026 -

Paving Commandos Jupiter has opened a new location at 287 E Indiantown Rd, Jupiter, FL 33477, establishing a local base for delivering residential and commercial paving projects to property owners throughout Palm Beach County. The location supports the company's work across Jupiter, West Palm Beach, Boca Raton, Boynton Beach, and Riviera Beach, and reflects a focus on paver installation for South Florida conditions.

The company plans its projects around the region's climate, accounting for heat, heavy seasonal rainfall, humidity, and shifting soils when preparing and completing each installation. These environmental factors influence how surfaces are graded and reinforced, and the company treats them as central considerations rather than afterthoughts. Attention to drainage grading helps manage the volume of water that South Florida properties encounter during the rainy season, while subgrade preparation and compaction address the movement associated with local soil conditions.

According to the company, proper subgrade preparation and compaction form the foundation of stable paver surfaces for driveways, patios, walkways, pool decks, and commercial properties. Surfaces built on poorly prepared subgrade can settle unevenly over time, and the company approaches each site with these structural fundamentals in mind before installation begins.

"A paver surface is only as reliable as the work that happens beneath it," said Todd Dobson, Operations Director at Paving Commandos Jupiter. "The new location allows the crew to respond to projects across Palm Beach County while maintaining the same attention to subgrade preparation, compaction, and drainage that each installation requires."

The company offers a range of services intended to address different property needs. Driveway pavers are engineered for residential and commercial traffic, while patio and walkway systems are designed with drainage and expansion in mind. Pool deck pavers focus on slip-resistant, UV-exposed surfaces suited to Florida's sun and moisture, and commercial paving addresses parking areas, retail frontages, and municipal applications. Rounding out the offerings, the company provides paver installation and repair services in Palm Beach County that restore existing surfaces through targeted repair and resurfacing techniques rather than full replacement.

Dobson noted that long-term performance depends on more than the initial layout. "Appropriate reinforcement and sealing play an ongoing role in how a paver surface holds up and how it looks over the years," he said. "Those steps help surfaces stand up to the heat, rainfall, and humidity that define the local environment."

By combining installation and repair capabilities under one local operation, Paving Commandos Jupiter aims to serve homeowners, commercial property owners and managers, HOA boards, and real estate professionals seeking paving work suited to the demands of the region. The company provides free on-site assessments and written project estimates for property owners considering new installations or repairs.

Paving Commandos Jupiter is a paving contractor based in Palm Beach County, Florida, specializing in paver craftsmanship built for the region's climate. The company's services include driveway pavers, patio and walkway pavers, pool deck pavers, commercial paving, and paver repairs, delivered with a focus on technical discipline, crew accountability, and adherence to established standards across Jupiter and surrounding communities.
